NEWS RELEASE

Healthcare Executive John Moore to lead South Lake Hospital

CLERMONT, Fla. (8/25/11) South Lake Hospital's Board of Directors announced today the appointment of John Moore as chief executive officer, effective October 1. Moore, who currently serves as the hospital's chief operating officer, succeeds Leslie Longacre, who will retire at the end of this year after 35 years with the hospital.

"John is an experienced healthcare leader who is known for his ability to cultivate relationships," said Susan McLean, president of South Lake Hospital's Board of Directors. "He is uniquely qualified to lead the hospital, having earned the trust of the staff, board and physicians."

Moore currently oversees hospital operations and most recently led the development, planning, design and completion of South Lake Hospital's $63 million expansion. The two-year project nearly doubled the size of the hospital, adding additional patient beds, new outpatient services, a robotic surgical system and several state-of-the-art service lines, including two cardiac catheterization labs.

Moore is actively engaged in the business community here, serving as chairman of the South Lake Chamber of Commerce, and on the boards of Cornerstone Hospice, Lake EMS, Community Foundation of South Lake and the Central Florida Sports Commission.

Prior to joining Orlando Health in 1997, Moore served in management and business development roles for various healthcare organizations. He earned both his Masters of Healthcare Administration and his Bachelors of Business Administration from the University of Kentucky.

South Lake Hospital, in partnership with Orlando Health, is part of a 180-acre health, wellness and education campus that employs approximately 1,100 team members and includes the 122-bed hospital, the Centre for Women's Health, the National Training Center, and an outpatient surgery center and endoscopy center.
